Bishop Brown's Trial in Heresy Case Pressed

Episcopalians Accuse Retired Divine of Denying the Divinity of Christ and Opposing Doctrines

Lynching Is Condemned
Proposal Prohibiting Member of Church Marrying Divorced Person Opposed

By Rev. Dr. E. C. Chorley

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—Bishop William Montgomery Brown, retired bishop of Arkansas, will be presented for trial on a charge of heresy and, if found guilty, will be deprived of his office as bishop and will be deposed from the priesthood if a memorial from the diocese of Arkansas is granted. The memorial, which is now before the House of Bishops, recites that in his book, "Communism and Christianity," Bishop Brown has denied the divinity of Christ and declared "that cannibalism is the basis of the sacrament of the Holy Communion of bread and wine and has promulgated the most sacrilegious propaganda against the Church and her teachings and doctrines."

The special committee recommended that the House of Bishops either issue a statement repudiating the teaching of Bishop Brown, or proceed under the canon for the trial of a bishop for heresy. The case will be considered by the House of Bishops, which has been tried for heresy. Bishop Brown was consecrated Bishop of Arkansas in 1898 and resigned in 1912. He resides at Gaston, Oreg.

Against Remarriage Proposal
Bishop Brent's proposal, prohibiting any member of the Church from marrying a person who has been divorced, was criticized by Bishop F. F. Reese of Georgia, who said it would exclude every man and woman in the Church who had been married by ministers of other churches or by the civil authorities. Bishop Brent replied that the amendment made no difference in the law of the Church and did not stand in the way of a bishop administering the last rites in justice and mercy.

The presiding bishop has appointed Bishop F. W. Keator, of Olympia, Wash., as acting Bishop of Eastern Oregon, until he vacates by the resignation of Bishop R. L. Padgett.

A resolution declaring that the Church looked "with abhorrence upon the growing practice of what is known as 'Bible law' upon all forms of violence as constituting not only a menace to law and order and endangering the very existence of government itself, but as contrary to the revealed will of God," was introduced into the House of Deputies by the Rev. C. P. Deems of San Francisco, presented a resolution condemning the use of rifles and other arms in the parish fairs. Both these resolutions were referred to the committee on social service.

Wants Church for Masses
Mr. Edmund L. Baylies, of New York, said that the Episcopal church too highly regarded the church of the privileged class instead of the church of the masses. He urged the establishment of institutes, similar to that of the Seamen's Institute, South Street, New York.

After a sharp debate, the House of Bishops discharged the joint committee on the ministry of healing in the capital that an announcement soon would be forthcoming of the engagement of the Senator and Miss Camilla Sewall.

Senator Edge refused to discuss the reports, but his friends at the Senate discussed them with no apparent show of surprise. The Senator was married in 1907 to Miss Lady Lee Phillips, of Memphis, Tenn., who died in 1915.
